

ecological community

by ralph weder

&

illustrated by virginia elena patrone

The Voice of the New Age

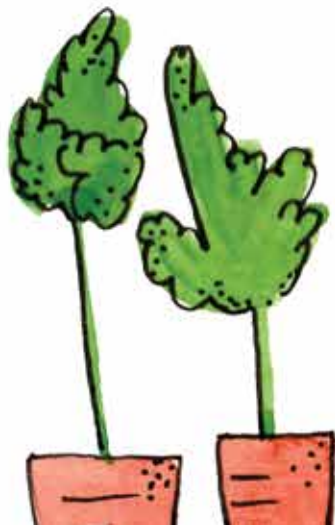

Let's Get Started

Hello, my name is Lily. Today I went to the community garden with my neighbourhood friends Nick, Sophia, and Jack. We went there because we want to open a café in the centre of the garden where all the neighbours can meet and spend time together. But first we needed to collect money to build the café.

A community garden is a place found in the neighbourhood where all neighbours can grow vegetables and fruits. We grow and harvest together.

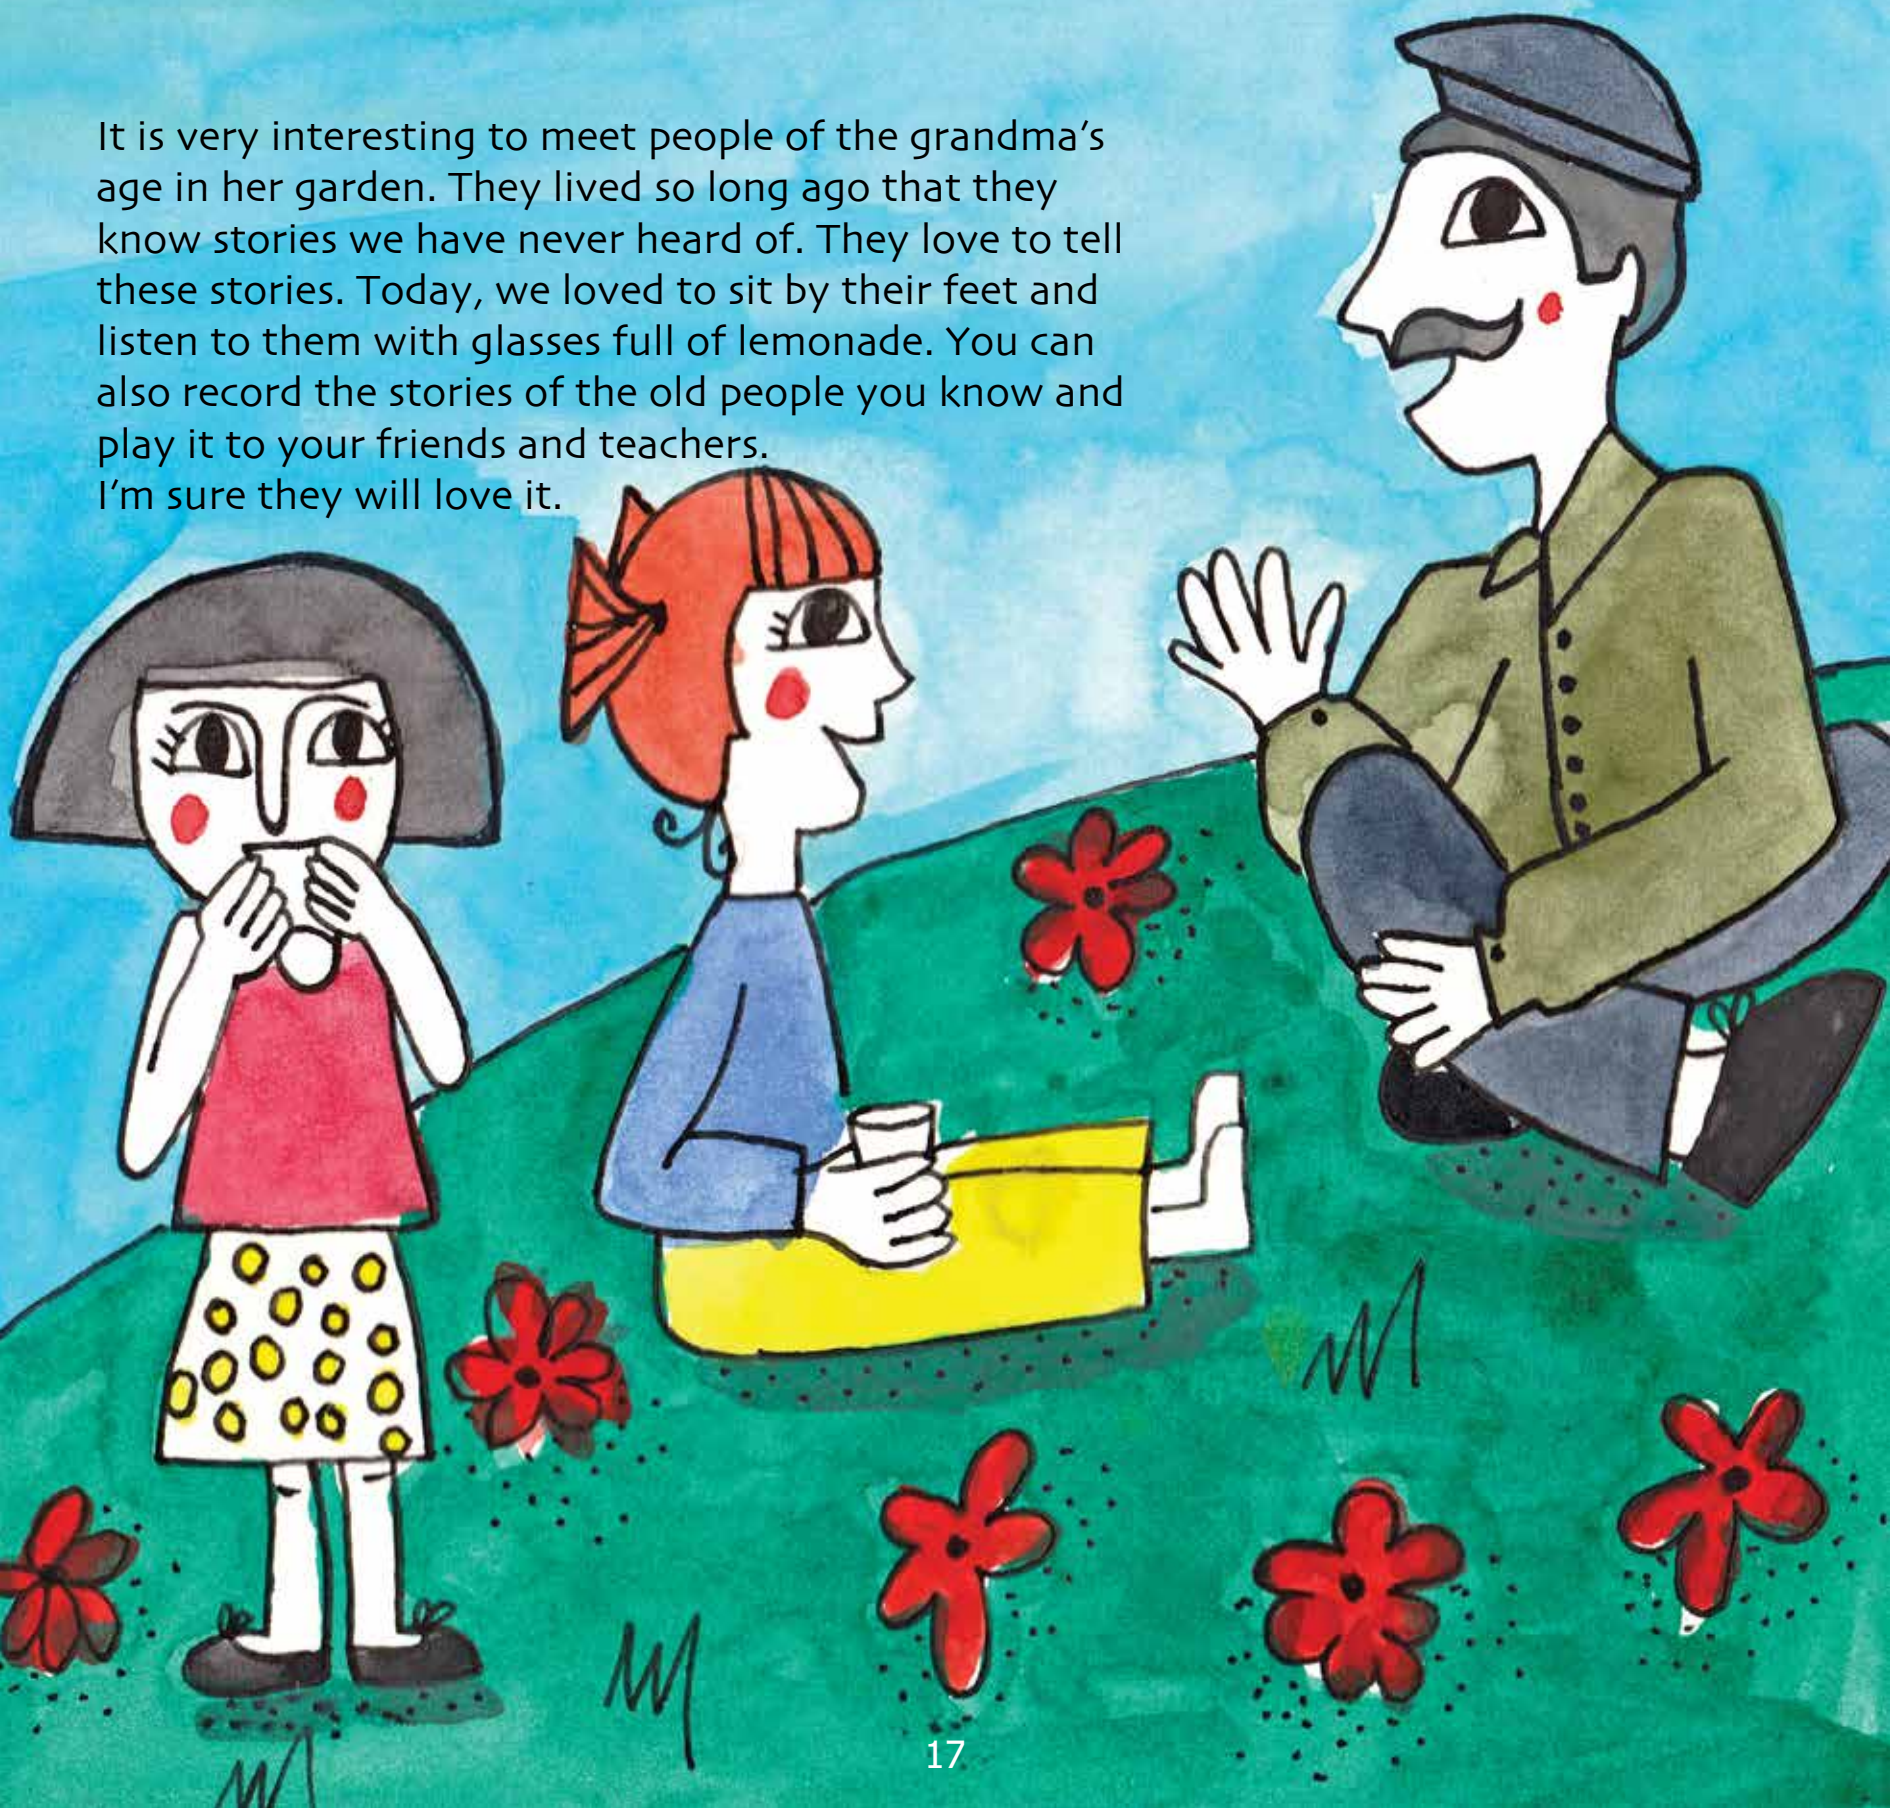

Home Made Lemonade

A sweet grandma in our ecological community made lemonade to support us. At this time, we were very tired. So, we decided to sell the lemonade from her huge garden. We also drank plenty of it ourselves. I cannot thank her enough for making the lemonade without sugar. Because I do not want to eat any sugar.

It is very interesting to meet people of the grandma's age in her garden. They lived so long ago that they know stories we have never heard of. They love to tell these stories. Today, we loved to sit by their feet and listen to them with glasses full of lemonade. You can also record the stories of the old people you know and play it to your friends and teachers. I'm sure they will love it.

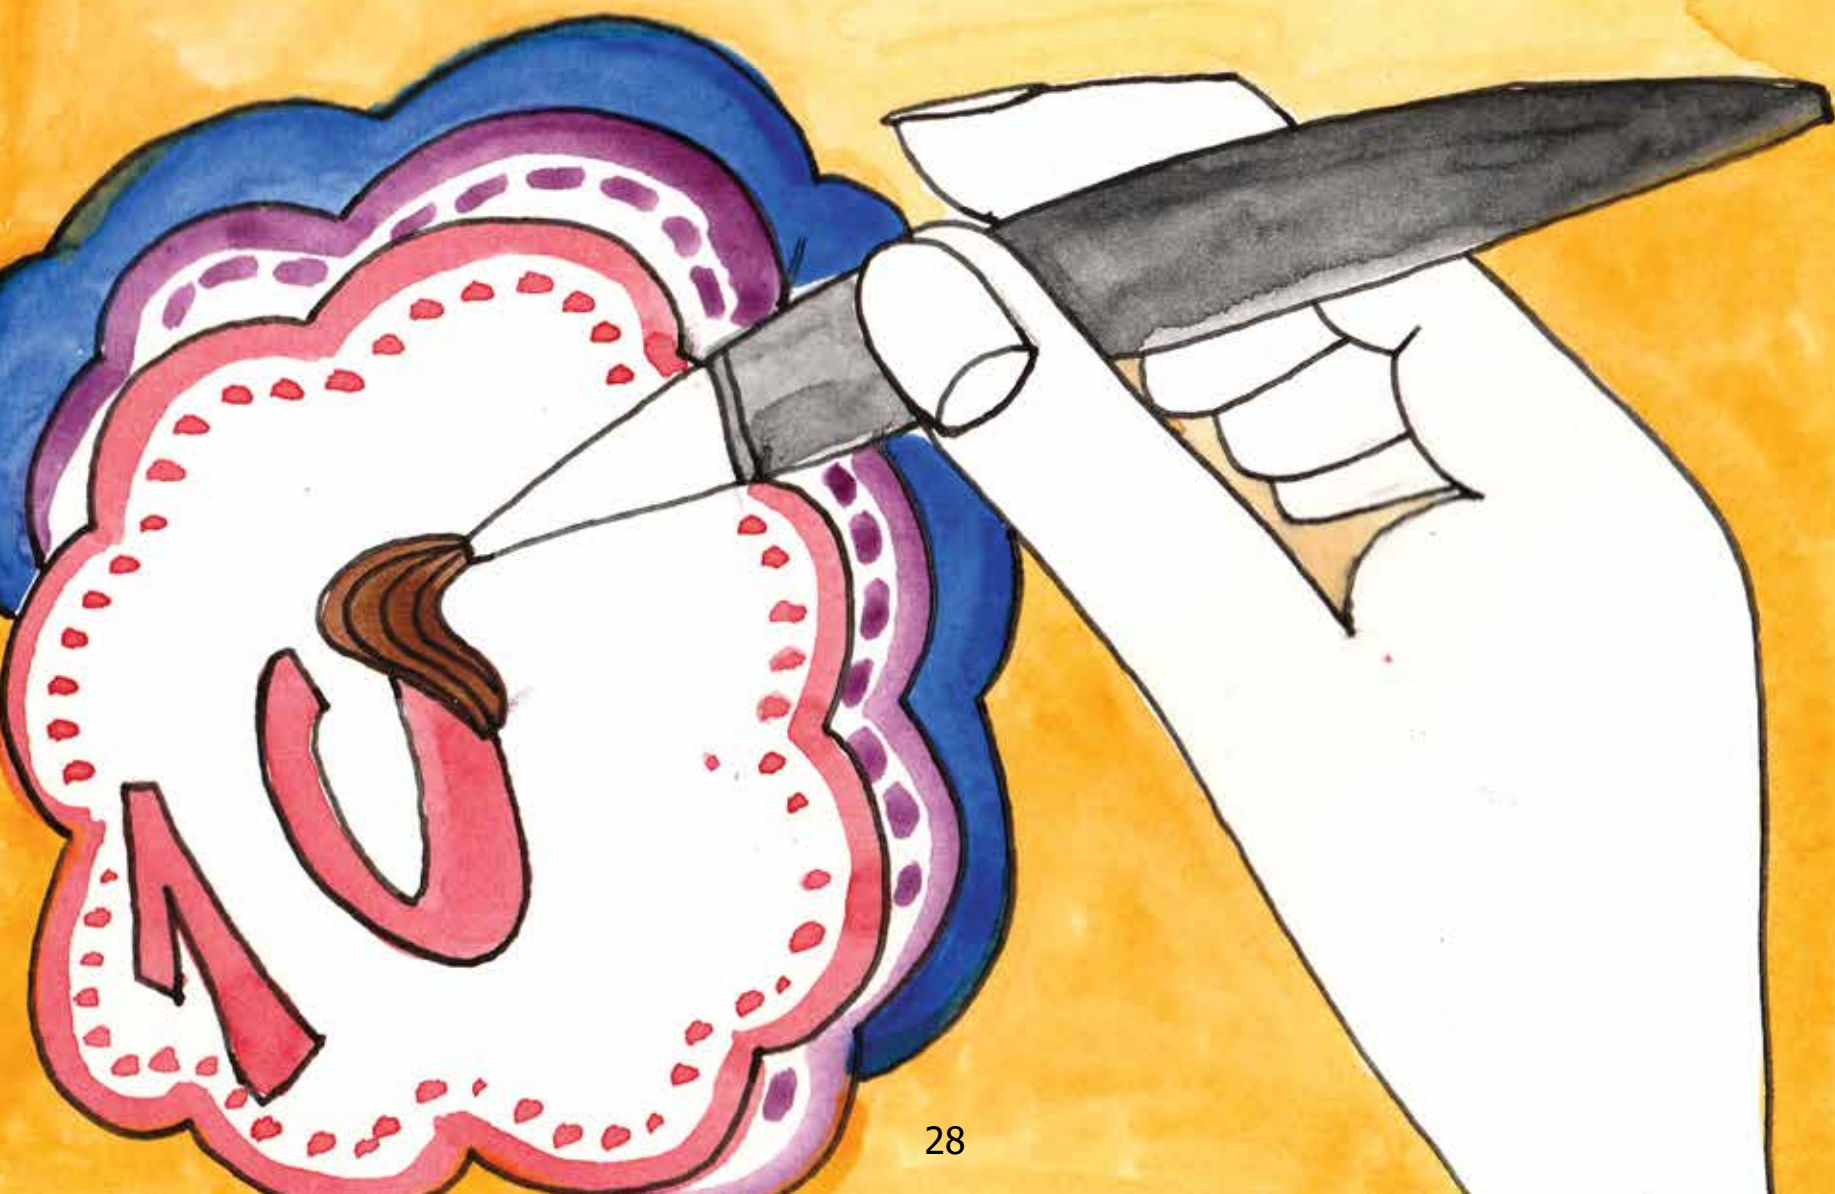

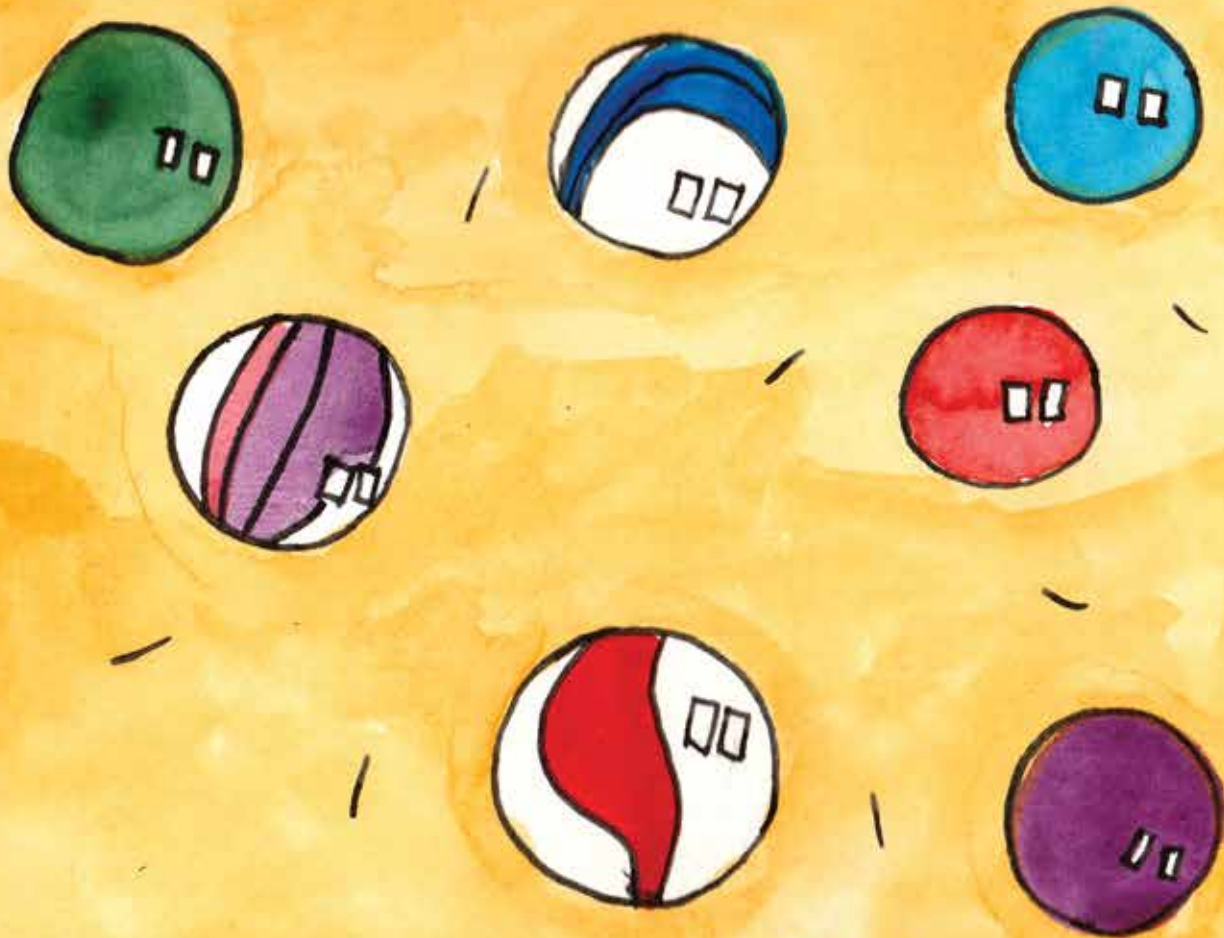

Small Shops

Our ecological community has its own money. Yes, you heard it right.

It has its own money. But it can only be used in our neighbourhood.

By doing this, we built a very strong network of support in our neighbourhood. This was Mila's mother's idea. She painted the banknotes herself. They are very colourful and cute. Instead of going to huge markets far away, we buy everything we need from little shops close to us with our own money. Our guests are very surprised when they see our money. But they really like it when we explain why we made our own.

My favourite things in our grocery store are the marbles.
I have 35 of them. If I earn more money, I will buy more.
I love playing with them.